

A father and Son are in a terrible accident...

The father is pronounced dead at the scene and the son is rushed to the hospital in critical condition. At the hospital, after being rushed into emergency surgery, the surgeon proclaims, "I cannot operate on this patient. He is my son."

How could this be? Who is the Surgeon?

Who's the Surgeon?

It's statistically most likely that the surgeon is the boy's mother, yet only about 15% of people hearing this scenario for the first time guess the Mother.

What did you guess?
